THE EVENING STAR.

WASHINGTON. CROSBY S. NOYES.

THE EVENING STAR has a regular and permanent circulation in Washington three times larger than that of any other paper in the city. As a local NEWS paper and Ad-vertising Medium it has no competitor.

Among the politicians who have for years been open and avowed anti-Cleveland men, but who persuaded themselves to work and vote for him last November, there is current a large quantity and varied quality of disgust. The sweets of victory can no longer be tasted, for the palate is fully occupied in trying torid itself of the bitterness of personal defeat. It is undoubtedly true that most of the practical members of that essentially practical organization called Tammany were induced to exert themselves during the last campaign by hopes of great official exaltation and large financial gain. They managed, somehow or other, to delude themselves into believing that the Grover Cleveland of 1833 would be a much more companionable and politic sort of fellow than was the Grover Cleveland of 1885-1889, and behind this ignus fatuus they marched with confidence toward prizes that will never be theirs. That they blundered they now well know, but their knowledge will avail nothing in the electoral college. All they can do is to wait for four years more and pray for more pliable material in the democratic convention of 1896. But their beneficiary is by no means satisfied with declaring his intentions as to the distribution of Federal patronage and the strengthening of the cause of civil service reform; he has come to the front in the senatorial fight and puts himself on record as being unalterably opposed to the election of Mr. Edward Murphy-the Tiger's own. That Tammany is determined to elect Mr. Murphy has been evident from the beginning of the fight; that President-elect Cleveland is going to do his best to defeat him ought to be plain; that Tammany and Mr. Cleveland are going to have s tissele, no matter how the senatorial contest goes, is apparently a sure thing.

That the troller system of street car propulsion is unfitted for use in cities has at last become evident to some of the good people of In MILLINERY. Raltumore. The discovery is a trifle late to do any good, but sensible communities which have not yet passed into the possession of corporations who, for revenue only, believe in and operate cheap and dangerous motive power, may profit by the experience of others. Much has been said on both sides of this quostion and many of the utterances lack reasonable support. For instance, a prominent Baltimorean threatens to enter suit against one of the companies in his city because he believes the presence and operation of the road to be a nuisance. In a letter to Mayor Latrobe he says: "I give you further notice that the nuisance of which I complain exceeds the extravaganzas of fiction and equals the barbarous cruelties of the middle ages. This nuisance is not a mere visionary picture: it is a stern reality, a flesh and blood fact with color in its cheeks. It is a system of rapid transit by hissing monsters, often hurled at frightful rates of speed, thumping and bumping at every step. They ascend and descend every grade with Eabylonish howls. The air rings with the shricks of their gongs, and by day and by night a flesh-creeping saw-mill buzz, with showers of electric sparks, mark their struggling, groaning course through the highways of a densely populated city." This good citizen is probably nervous, but he makes no compisint against the really great evils; the conditions at which he feels aggrieved may all be modified. The ugly disfigurement and obstruction of otherwise smooth and attractive streets and avenues, the danger to life with which every wire is charged and the difficulties placed in the way of the fire department are genuine causes for opposition to the trolley system. ***

Perhaps the Paltimore Sun has some inside information as to what the United States Senate would do in case Kansas should send Mrs. Lease to be Senator Peffer's colleague, but if it has not there are several people who would really like to know why the Sun should say that if Mrs. Lease were elected she would not be allowed to take her seat. The newspapers of the country have had a good deal of fun in respect to Mrs. Lease, but none of them have seriously denied her ability as a leader and erator, and there would be but few Americans who would be so unjust as to object to her representing Kansas in the Senate if Kansas should see fit to send her there. Old women in tronsers have been negative features in the national legislature; a woman in petticoats would be no more out of place.

Chicago's municipal authorities now have before them a proposition which should long ago have received serious and general attention in this city and which has for its object the enconregement of broad tires for vehicles. This is to be accomplished by a graduated license system, which will discriminate in favor of the carts and wagons and omnibuses that are best fitted for the hanling of heavy loads and least likely to cut up the streets. The idea is mot a novel one, for it has been discussed here more than once, and here it should be put in operation. Every summer there is evidence of the necessity for regulations which will make it too. expensive for individuals to cut up the normally smooth street surfaces with the narrowtired wheels of heavily laden vehicles, In the illness of little Martena Harrison is an unanswerable argument for more thorough separation of the official and private portions of the Executive Mansion. It is unreasonable that those who have business with the President can see him only within the walls of the house which, just now, has in its attempthere the contagion of scarlet fever. To be sure the offices are separated from the resident portion, but only by hallways and doors, and were the disease in any other house in the city the entire building and not simply a portion of it would be quarantined. This is at once the richest and the most penurious government on earth. ---

This is the eighty-third anniversary of the birth of William Ewart Gladstone and as such will be remembered by thousands of Americans who admire the character of England's greatest statesman. That his brain force and his physical powers are still superior to the destroying efforts of Time is subject for congratulation as it is matter for wonder. No human being is more generally respected than the premier of that great empire which is so closely related to the greatest of republics.

Alumni who object to Mr. Cleveland's becoming a Sigma Chi because he is not a graduate should remember that he went through the electoral college very successfully in 1885 and will do so again in 1803.

The present flourish of political razors about the head of Mr. Murphy must make his impressions quite similar to those of an unpopular guest at a "parlor social."

A number of people who were commenting on Grover Cleveland's silence are now expend-ing even greater vigor in bemoaning its ab-

The news that a Russian count was killed in a duel by the bullet of a man from this country is another evidence that Americans will never learn to do these things as they do in Europe. The President-elect has found so many people to make up his cabinet for him that he has plenty of time to devote to the Senate. The eye of John D. Rockefeller's needle will probably be a little larger than that of some other rich men.

Let it ever be remembered that a long freez ing spell surely precedes the announcement of a short ice crop.

It is remarkable to note how the mercury in POPULAR SHOPPING PLACE the democratic thermometer goes down when

WM. F. DOWNEY, Esq.,

Carriace Repository and Stable.

Dear Sir: I have watched with interest the improvements you have been making recently in the drainace system of your stables and took occasion today to make a thorough inspection of entire establishment. of entire establishment. The provisions you have made for the trap-ring of each drain and the location of outlet from each stall insures security against dela-terious vasses and offensive edo s, so essential for health and contrort of horses. The absence of woodwork on the floors and wood wainsceating and substitution therefor of the best Por land cement, properly laid has given you a non-absorbent surface, easily kept clean.

In fact you have, in my opinion, the best arrangements that mechanical skill can afford, and certainly the sanitary appliances for drainage and ventilation are superior to any stable, perhaps, in this or any other city.

Very truly yours, S. F. R., Inspector Plumbing D.G. Pirst-class accommodations for Boarding Borses.
